

About Connection Silicon Valley

Connection Silicon Valley (CSV) is an organization that helps connect Canadian companies looking to enter the US market and raise capital. We launched the Canadian Women's Network \(CWN\) in 2017 as the preeminent startup community that connects Canadian women founders to Silicon Valley to help them grow and scale. Joanne Fedeyko is a Founding Board Member of CELS (Canadian Entrepreneurs in Life Sciences), a Bay Area nonprofit supporting the advancement of Canadian life science technology businesses who are planning for U.S. funding or market entry.

CSV brings together a team of Canadian entrepreneurs & business leaders who have built successful careers, reputations, startup wisdom, industry know-how, and strong networks in Silicon Valley.

Started in 2016, CSV has successfully helped over 180 startups gain traction through tailored programming; sales and pre-sales activities, fundraising know-how, introductions to our investor community, mentorship, and premium business coaching and consultation.

Connection Silicon Valley's Mission

CSV's mission is to provide the highest level of programming and services to early stage Canadian startups; connect entrepreneurs into our extensive network of founders, business leaders and influencers, and inspire founders to think bigger.
