

Canada's premier health public affairs and policy team, from insight to impact.

Global's Public Affairs is a trusted provider of integrated public affairs programs and policy consulting from coast to coast. We serve many of Canada's leading research-based pharmaceutical companies, medical device manufacturers, health associations, non-profit organizations and other health-focused interests. Our cross-country reach, unparalleled sector knowledge, expertise and insights into federal, provincial and pan-Canadian initiatives are brought together to help clients navigate regulatory, market access and policy challenges for specific medicines and technologies.

The Global difference is our integrated approach to public affairs across the spectrum of government relations, advocacy and strategic communications. Drawing on diverse professional backgrounds, our experienced consultants will work with you to plan and deliver tailored solutions to achieve your business goals. Our support includes the strategy, development, and tactical execution of issue-based public policy campaigns for life sciences companies and leading associations.

Alberta's Health and Life Science team has their fingers on both the pulse of politics within Alberta as it relates to health as well as strategic insights into opportunities and approaches that work within the health system in multiple therapeutic areas. We support local, national and global based health organizations in pharmaceutical, medical device, health IT and data initiatives that include market access, advocacy and strategy development.
