

Mountain Integrated Medical Devices

Mountain Integrated Medical Devices Inc. (www.mimd.ca) (MIMD) is the best kept secret in the medical device industry in Western Canada! For over 20 years, MIMD has been one of the only full service contract manufacturing facilities focused and specializing in medical devices.

MIMD offers services to companies in early stages looking to build units for testing through multi-national corporations running at world-wide volumes. MIMD can also assist with ramping up existing production of your product that is already on the market. If our customers succeed, so do we!

MIMD is based in Edmonton, Alberta and is ISO 13485:2016 certified. Our processes and staff ensure your high quality product is delivered on-time to your specification each and every time. MIMD maintains a variety of manufacturing settings including an ISO Class 7 certified cleanroom, segregated productions areas, and warehouse facilities. We help our customers understand and manage sterilization processes for their devices and have access through our supply chain to any type of sterilization process that may be needed.

What can our team help you with?

Medical Device Commercialization is a highly regulated industry with many technical, quality and regulatory considerations. Currently one of our most highly subscribed services is project based work to help early stage or early product companies scope their efforts in relationship to manufacturing, packaging, sterility, biocompatibility, cleaning processes and much more...

Jennifer Bisson, MIMD's CEO, holds a degree in Mechanical Engineering and started her career designing and bringing to market a novel medical device in Canada with Baylis Medical in Toronto, ON. She later worked 15 years as a Lead Auditor for the French Notified Body, GMED, assessing and auditing medical devices and quality systems around the world. Since returning to Alberta, she has helped a number of start-ups navigate the early phases of product development and testing.

If you are in the medical device industry, please contact MIMD, we are always available to discuss your plans and challenges!
